New CNA-Q campus opens

Staff Reporter

HH SHEIKHA Mozah Nasser al-Misnad, wife of HH the Emir, formally opened the new campus of the College of the North Atlantic-Qatar (CNA-Q) at a grand ceremony on Thursday night.

The function was attended by Prime Minister HH Sheikh Abdullah bin Khalifa al-Thani, and a number of other dignitaries, including ministers. Also present were Lt Gov of the province of Newfoundland and Labrador Edward Roberts, president of CNA in Canada Bruce Hollet, and a number of senior officials and personalities.

Addressing guests inside a specially erected tent, HH Sheikh Mozah praised the new campus as a new significant step in the course of the educational progress in the state. It is part of the vision of HH the Emir Sheikh Hamad bin Khalifa al-Thani who believes that the human development is a basis for building up efficient and capable manpower.

HH Sheikha Mozah said the function was considered a celebration of the educational partnership between Qatar and Canada, launched with the North Atlantic College in Doha in September 2001.

She described the North Atlantic College in Qatar as a model of international partnership, which Qatar has sought to establish with other world class education institutions. It is also an example of continued co-operation between industry and business sectors through technological and training programmes.

Edward Roberts said the campus is "truly world class" and the institute has no rivals anywhere in the world. He said Qatar and Newfoundland and Labrador have lot of things in common. "We are a people of sea – like you". Both peoples are very hospitable. These make "our partnership stronger".
