

Consequence Management after Catastrophe

Bruce E. Seely

Dean, College of Sciences and Arts,
Michigan Technological University, USA

NATO Science for Peace & Security Programme Information Day
Enhancing "Partnership" through Cooperation
4 February 2010, Istanbul/Turkey

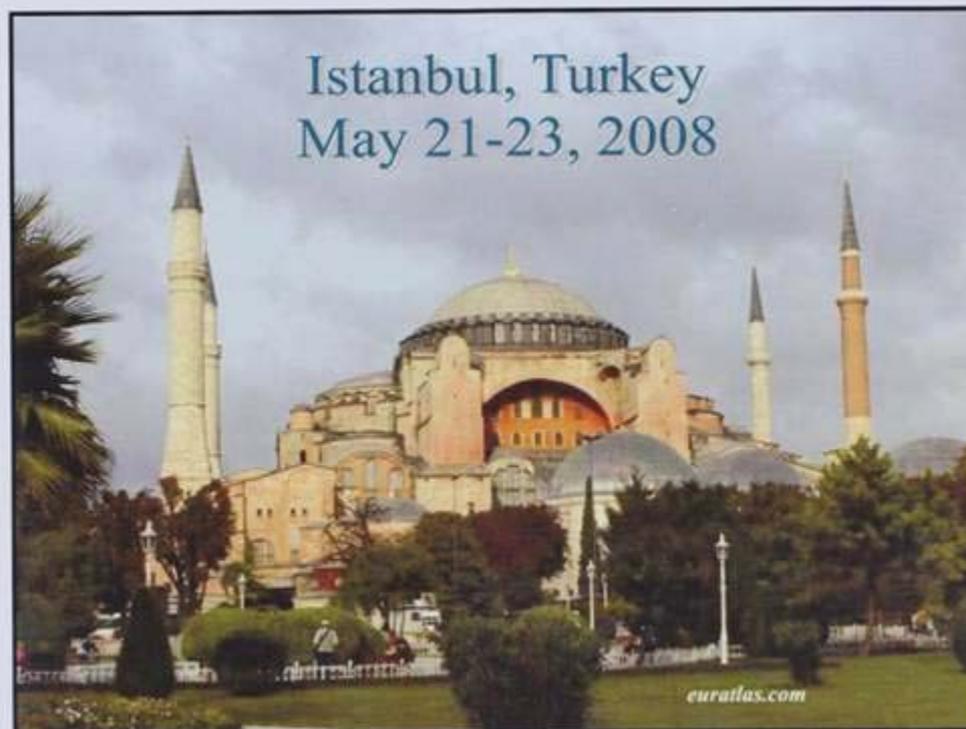

Forward Look Initiative

Security: Advancing a Framework for Enquiries (SAFE)
European Science Foundation/NATO

Workshop 4: Management of Security: Success and Failures

1. Basic Similarity among Catastrophes

Minneapolis 2007

Hurricane Katrina, 2005

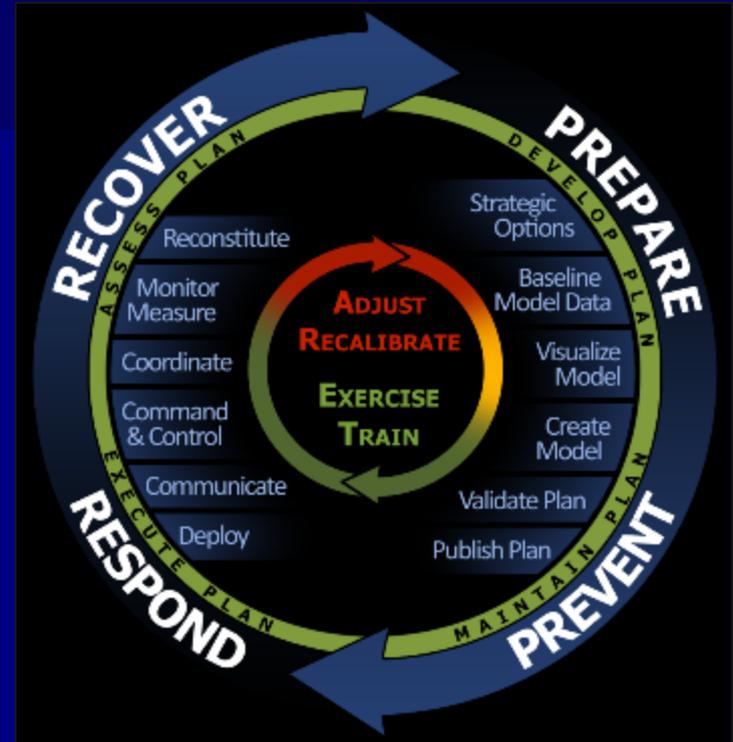

Tsunami, 2004

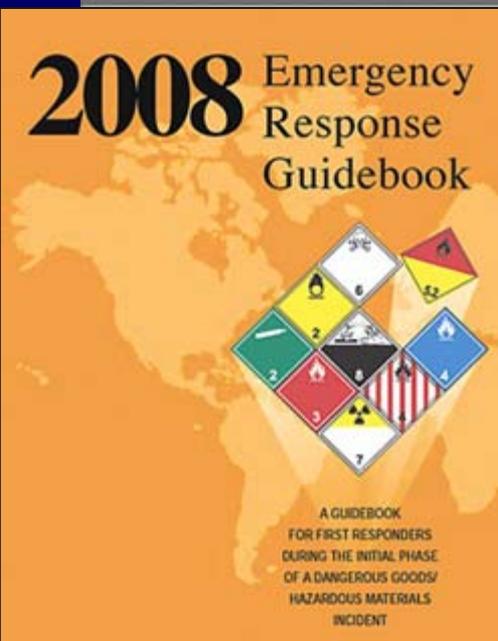

Jakarta Marriott, 2009

2. Preparation

2. Preparation

3. Governance

ments, Maps Publications, Stamps, Databases UN Works
uman Rights Humanitarian Affairs International Law

Humanitarian Affairs

United Nations High
Commissioner for Refugees
(UNHCR)

United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine
Refugees (UNRWA)

ReliefWeb

Landmines

Chernobyl Disaster

Special Representative for Children and Armed Conflict

Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA)

International Strategy for Disaster Reduction (UNISDR)

Secretary-General's High-Level Task Force on the Global Food Security Crisis

More information

Home Recent Additions Employment Procurement Comments Q&A UN System Sites Index Search

عربي | 中文 | English | Français | Русский | Español

4. Resilience

5. The Technological Fix

Emergency Response Center

6. Attention to Gender

7. Communication

H1-N1 PANDEMIC

1. Basic similarity among catastrophes
2. Preparation
3. Governance
 - a. Quality
 - b. Mission identification
 - a. Threats to or Threats from?
 - b. Cold War lessons?
4. Resilience
5. Technological Fixes
6. Attention to Gender
7. Communication